

PUBLICATION ETHICS AND PUBLICATION MALPRACTICE STATEMENT

All the Journals published by SHIVIP Publications are double-blind peer-reviewed journal with a key focus on contemporary research ideas in various domain of studies. This document shall be considered as a statement concerning ethical behaviour for the authors, the editors, the reviewers and the publisher who will be involved in the process of research article publication with us. SHIVIP Publications adheres to the principles outlined by COPE's (Committee on Publication Ethics) Best Practice Guidelines for Journal Publishers, Editors, Reviewers and Authors. [<https://publicationethics.org/>]

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE PUBLISHER

SHIVIP Publications in the role of the publisher strongly adhere to the Committee on Publication Ethics (COPE)'s Code of Conduct laid down for Journal Publishers. We are committed to support all the efforts put down by the editors, the academic contributions of authors, and the respected volunteered work of the reviewers. The publisher is also responsible for ensuring that the publication system works smoothly, and that ethical guidelines are applied to assist the editor, author, and reviewer in performing their ethical duties.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE EDITORS

Publications Decisions

The Editor- in - Chief and Managing Editor will ensures that all submitted manuscripts being considered for publication, mandatorily undergo double-blind peer review by the subject experts. The Editor- in - Chief and the Managing Editor are responsible for deciding which of the manuscripts submitted to the journal will be published, based on the validation of the work in question, its importance to researchers and readers, the reviewers' comments, and such legal requirements as are currently in force regarding libel, copyright infringement and plagiarism. However, neither the Editor- in- Chief nor the Managing Editor have the authority to influence the reviewers who are conducting the blind review of the articles submitted for peer review.

Fair Play and editorial independence

The manuscript shall be evaluated solely on the basis of their academic merit (importance, originality, study's validity, clarity) and its relevance to the journal's scope, without regard to the authors' race, gender, sexual orientation, ethnic origin, citizenship, religious belief, political philosophy or institutional affiliation. The Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor has full authority over the entire editorial content of the journal and the timing of publication of that content.

Confidentiality

The Editor-in-Chief, the Managing Editor and other editorial staff must not disclose any information about a submitted manuscript to anyone other than the corresponding author, reviewers, potential reviewers, other editorial advisers, and the publisher.

Disclosure and Conflicts of Interest

The Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor and members of the editorial board will not use unpublished information, which is, disclosed in a submitted manuscript for their own research purposes without the authors' written consent. In addition, the information or ideas obtained by editors resulting from the handling of the manuscript will be kept confidential and not be used for their personal advantage in any way. Editors will ask another member of the editorial board to handle the manuscript in case of any conflicts of interest resulting from competitive, collaborative, or other relationships/connections with any of the authors, companies or institutions connected to the paper.

Involvement and cooperation in investigations

Editor-in-Chief and Managing Editor will take responsive measures when ethical concerns are raised with regard to a submitted manuscript or published paper. Every reported act of unethical publishing behaviour will be looked into, even if it is discovered years after publication. If on an investigation, the ethical concern is well-founded, a correction, retraction, expression of concern or other note as may be relevant, will be published in the journal.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE REVIEWERS

Contribution of Double-Blind Peer Review

Double-Blind Peer review assists the editors in making editorial decisions and through editorial communications with the author, may assist the authors in improving their manuscript. The reviewers will not know the author's identity, as any identifying information will be stripped from the manuscript before going for a review. Reviewers' comments to the editors are confidential and before passing on to the author will be made anonymous. The names of the reviewers remain strictly confidential; with their identities known only to the Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor.

Promptness

Any selected referee who feels unqualified to review the assigned manuscript or unable to provide a prompt review should notify the Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor and excuse himself/herself from the review process.

Confidentiality

Manuscripts received for review must be treated as confidential documents. They must not be shown to or discussed with, others except as authorized by the Editor-in-Chief and the Managing Editor.

Standards of Objectivity

Reviews should be conducted objectively. There shall be no personal criticism of the author. Reviewers should express their views clearly with supporting arguments so that authors can use them to improve the manuscript.

Acknowledgment of Sources

Reviewers should identify relevant published work that has not been cited by the authors. Any statement that had been previously reported elsewhere should be accompanied by the relevant citation. A reviewer should also report the Editor-in-Chief/Managing Editor of any substantial similarity or overlap between the manuscript under consideration and any other published paper of which they have personal knowledge.

Disclosure and conflicts of interest

Privileged information or ideas obtained through double-blind peer review must be kept confidential and not used for personal advantage. Reviewers should not review manuscripts in which they have conflicts of interest resulting from competitive, collaborative, or other relationships or connections with any of the authors, companies, or institutions connected to the papers.

RESPONSIBILITIES OF THE AUTHORS

Reporting Standards

Authors of original research should present an accurate account of the work performed as well as an objective discussion of its significance. Underlying data should be represented accurately in the paper. The manuscript should contain sufficient detail and references to permit others to replicate the work. Fraudulent or knowingly inaccurate statements constitute unethical behaviour and are unacceptable.

Data Access and Retention

Authors may be asked to provide the raw data in connection with a paper for editorial review and should be prepared to provide public access to such, if practicable. In any event, the authors should ensure accessibility of such data for a reasonable time after publication, provided that the confidentiality of the participants can be protected.

Originality and Plagiarism

Authors should ensure that they have written entirely original works, and if the authors have used the work and/or words of others, this must be appropriately cited or quoted.

Multiple or concurrent submission/publication

An author should not, in general, publish manuscripts describing essentially the same research in more than one journal or primary publication. Submitting the same manuscript to more than one journal concurrently constitutes unethical publishing behaviour and is unacceptable.

Acknowledgment of Sources

Proper acknowledgment of the work of others must always be given. Authors should cite publications that have been influential in determining the nature of the reported work.

Authorship of the Paper

Authorship should be limited to those who have made a significant contribution to the conception, design, execution, or interpretation of the reported study. All those who have made significant contributions should be listed as co-authors. Where there are others who have participated in certain substantive aspects of the research project, they should be acknowledged or listed as contributors.

The Corresponding Author

The Corresponding Author is the author responsible for communicating with the journal for publication. The corresponding author should ensure that all appropriate co-authors and no inappropriate co-authors are included in the paper and that all co-authors have seen and approved the final version of the paper and have agreed to its submission for publication.

Acknowledgment of Funding Sources

Sources of funding for the research reported in the article should be duly acknowledged at the end of the article.

Disclosure and Conflicts of Interest

All authors should disclose any financial or other substantive conflicts of interest that might be construed to influence the results or interpretation of their work in their manuscript. All sources of financial support for the project should be disclosed.

Fundamental Errors in Published Works

When an author discovers a significant error or inaccuracy in his/her own published work, it is the author's obligation to promptly notify the Editor-in-Chief/Managing Editor and cooperate with the editors to retract or correct the paper.
